

Aimable jeunesse (Aymable Jeunesse) Psyché, 1671

B-Bc MS 27220, no. 89, pp. 130–1
LWV 45/16

The first system of the musical score consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The time signature is 3/8. The music begins with a treble clef staff containing a series of eighth notes and quarter notes, with some notes marked with a fermata. The bass clef staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and moving lines.

The second system of the musical score starts at measure 6. It continues with the same two-staff format. The treble clef staff features more complex rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth notes and eighth notes. The bass clef staff continues with its accompaniment, showing some rests and sustained notes.

The third system of the musical score starts at measure 13. It includes a first ending bracket labeled '(a)' at the end of the system. The treble clef staff has a melodic line with various ornaments and rests. The bass clef staff has a steady accompaniment.

The fourth system of the musical score starts at measure 19. It includes a second ending bracket labeled '(b)' at the end of the system. The treble clef staff shows a melodic line with some grace notes. The bass clef staff has a simple accompaniment.

Source

B-Bc: Brussels, Bibliothèque du Conservatoire Royal: MS 27220 (Brussels, post 1678).

Forty-five arrangements, one incomplete and two with doubles, entered by two unidentified (French?) hands (Hands A and E). Fuller has identified Hand A as the same as that in two organ manuscripts, Paris, Bibliothèque Nationale de France, Rés. 476 (see below) and Rés. 2094, both of which are linked to the Parisian organist Guillaume-Gabriel Nivers (ca. 1632–1714) and his circle. The scribe is very competent, and is particularly scrupulous in notating the intricate details of the brisé texture. The handwriting of the later scribe (Hand E) is hastier and less refined. The two scribes demonstrate different traditions of notating ornaments. The first scribe uses wavy lines above notes to denote tremblements and the same wavy lines below notes to denote pincés. In the case of Hand E, the pincé is represented by a stroke across a wavy line.

The Lully arrangements entered by the primary (and more professional) hand (Hand A) were chosen from ballets and operas from up to 1678, and the rest (by the later Hand E) were drawn from works from between 1674 (Alceste) and 1681 (Le Triomphe de l'amour). Exceptionally, 21 arrangements (nearly half of the total number) in Brussels-27220 were transposed to other keys, and some were sequenced into key groups with pieces drawn from diverse sources.

Performance Notes

In the seventeenth century, the notation is under-prescriptive by modern standard and some elements of the performance may only be partially indicated or not indicated at all. Generally speaking, the performer has the discretion to supply in performance much that is not indicated in the source, such as by adding ornaments as well as melodic and rhythmic fillers, by spreading chords in a variety of ways, by embellishing the cadences, and sometimes even by enriching the texture with points of imitation. The modern performer can take lessons from D'Anglebert, who re-edited a selection of his autograph pieces for publication in 1689.<sup>1</sup> The performance attitude and elusive nature of the seventeenth-century French repertory has been exhaustively discussed by David Fuller, Ronald Broude, Bruce Gustafson, and others.<sup>2</sup>

The player can refer to the table below for guidance on the interpretation of ornament symbols commonly found in manuscript sources. In this piece, tremblements are indicated by wavy lines above notes and pincés by the same wavy lines below notes.

Tremblement Pincé

Port de voix

Cadence Coulé Harpegement

In “3” time, eighth notes in conjunct motion (mm. 6, 16, etc.) should be rendered long and short successively as if notated in dotted values. Further advice on the rhythmic convention of notes inégales and other performance practice issues can be found in the “Introduction”.
