

Chaconne (Chaconne Italienne pr. les Triuelins et les scaramouches) Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, 1670

GB-Lbl MS. Add. 39569 (Babell), no. 258, p. 189

LWV 43/36

The first system of the musical score, measures 1 through 6. It features a treble and bass clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 3/4 time signature. The music consists of a repeating rhythmic pattern in the right hand, primarily quarter and eighth notes, with some sixteenth-note runs. The left hand provides a steady accompaniment with quarter and eighth notes.

The second system of the musical score, measures 7 through 14. It continues the repeating rhythmic pattern from the first system. Measure 10 includes a fermata over a half note in the right hand. The left hand accompaniment remains consistent with the previous system.

The third system of the musical score, measures 15 through 21. The repeating rhythmic pattern continues. Measure 18 features a fermata over a half note in the right hand. The left hand accompaniment remains consistent with the previous systems.

The fourth system of the musical score, measures 22 through 28. The repeating rhythmic pattern continues. Measure 25 features a fermata over a half note in the right hand. The left hand accompaniment remains consistent with the previous systems.

Musical score for measures 30-37. The piece is in G major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. The right hand features a melodic line with many grace notes and slurs. The left hand provides a steady accompaniment with eighth and sixteenth notes.

38

Musical score for measures 38-45. The right hand continues the melodic line with grace notes and slurs. The left hand accompaniment includes some longer note values and rests.

46

Musical score for measures 46-51. The right hand has a more active, rhythmic melodic line. The left hand accompaniment features a mix of eighth and sixteenth notes.

52

Musical score for measures 52-57. The right hand continues with a melodic line and grace notes. The left hand accompaniment includes some longer note values and rests. The piece concludes with a double bar line.

Thirty-three Lully pieces entered by Charles Babel (ca. 1634–1716) whose hand is neat and consistent. Same hand as that in Tenbury.

The Lully pieces are sequenced into Babel's compiled "suittes," a term evidently taken from Dieupart's Six Suites de clavessin (Amsterdam, 1701), from which twenty-three pieces were copied into Babell. Each key group is carefully designated "suite" with a number. Thirteen (out of 29) of the suites contain Lully arrangements, and seven use the overture as an opening movement (nos. 7, 15, 17, 21, 23, 26, and 27). On the basis of concordances, it appears that many of the arrangements in Babell also circulated in central Parisian sources. Gustafson brings up the possibility that Babel, rather than making his own arrangements, could have assembled his Lully arrangements from sources that also contain the remainder of his Parisian repertory.

Performance Notes

In the seventeenth century, the notation is under-prescriptive by modern standard and some elements of the performance may only be partially indicated or not indicated at all. Generally speaking, the performer has the discretion to supply in performance much that is not indicated in the source, such as by adding ornaments as well as melodic and rhythmic fillers, by spreading chords in a variety of ways, by embellishing the cadences, and sometimes even by enriching the texture with points of imitation. The modern performer can take lessons from D'Anglebert, who re-edited a selection of his autograph pieces for publication in 1689.¹ The performance attitude and elusive nature of the seventeenth-century French repertory has been exhaustively discussed by David Fuller, Ronald Broude, Bruce Gustafson, and
