

Gavotte (Gavotte d'Orithie) Le Triomphe de l'Amour, 1681

GB-Lbl MS. Add. 39569 (Babell), no. 133, p. 98
LWV 59/26

The first system of the Gavotte is written in 2/4 time with a key signature of one flat (B-flat). It consists of two staves: a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The treble staff begins with a quarter rest, followed by a dotted quarter note G4, an eighth note A4, a quarter note Bb4, and a dotted quarter note C5. The bass staff begins with a quarter note G3, followed by a quarter note A3, a quarter note Bb3, and a quarter note C4. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

The second system of the Gavotte continues from the first system. It begins with a measure rest (marked '6') in the treble staff, followed by a dotted quarter note G4, an eighth note A4, a quarter note Bb4, and a dotted quarter note C5. The bass staff continues with a quarter note G3, followed by a quarter note A3, a quarter note Bb3, and a quarter note C4. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

The third system of the Gavotte begins with a measure rest (marked '11') in the treble staff, followed by a dotted quarter note G4, an eighth note A4, a quarter note Bb4, and a dotted quarter note C5. The bass staff continues with a quarter note G3, followed by a quarter note A3, a quarter note Bb3, and a quarter note C4. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

Thirty-three Lully pieces entered by Charles Babel (ca. 1634–1716) whose hand is neat and consistent. Same hand as that in Tenbury.

The Lully pieces are sequenced into Babel's compiled "suittes," a term evidently taken from Dieupart's Six Suites de clavessin (Amsterdam, 1701), from which twenty-three pieces were copied into Babell. Each key group is carefully designated "suite" with a number. Thirteen (out of 29) of the suites contain Lully arrangements, and seven use the overture as an opening movement (nos. 7, 15, 17, 21, 23, 26, and 27). On the basis of concordances, it appears that many of the arrangements in Babell also circulated in central Parisian sources. Gustafson brings up the possibility that Babel, rather than making his own arrangements, could have assembled his Lully arrangements from sources that also contain the remainder of his Parisian repertory.

Performance Notes

In the seventeenth century, the notation is under-prescriptive by modern standard and some elements of the performance may only be partially indicated or not indicated at all. Generally speaking, the performer has the discretion to supply in performance much that is not indicated in the source, such as by adding ornaments as well as melodic and rhythmic fillers, by spreading chords in a variety of ways, by embellishing the cadences, and sometimes even by enriching the texture with points of imitation. The modern performer can take lessons from D'Anglebert, who re-edited a selection of his autograph pieces for publication in 1689.¹ The performance attitude and elusive nature of the seventeenth-century French repertory has been exhaustively discussed by David Fuller, Ronald Broude, Bruce Gustafson, and

In “2” time, eighth notes in conjunct motion (mm. 1–4, 6, etc.) should be rendered long and short successively as if notated in dotted values. Further advice on the rhythmic convention of notes inégales and other performance practice issues can be found in the “Introduction”.
