The second system of the musical score, measures 6-10. The melodic line continues with grace notes and slurs, and the accompaniment remains consistent with the first system.

The third system of the musical score, measures 11-15. It includes a first ending (marked '1.') and a second ending (marked '2.'). A section labeled 'Reprise' begins at measure 14, featuring a new melodic line in the right hand and a more active bass line in the left hand.

The fourth system of the musical score, measures 16-20. The music concludes with a final melodic flourish in the right hand and a steady accompaniment in the left hand.

Musical notation for measures 20-23. The system consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature has one flat (B-flat). The melody in the treble staff features a series of eighth-note patterns with various accidentals, including a double sharp (F#) and a double flat (B). The bass staff provides a rhythmic accompaniment with chords and single notes.

24

Musical notation for measures 24-26. The system consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature has one flat (B-flat). The melody in the treble staff continues with eighth-note patterns and includes a long horizontal line indicating a slur. The bass staff continues with accompaniment, featuring some grace notes.

27

Musical notation for measures 27-29. The system consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature has one flat (B-flat). The melody in the treble staff includes a sixteenth-note triplet. The bass staff continues with accompaniment.

30

Musical notation for measures 30-32. The system consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature has one flat (B-flat). The melody in the treble staff includes a sixteenth-note triplet. The system concludes with a first ending bracket labeled '1.' and a second ending bracket labeled '2.'. The first ending leads back to an earlier section, while the second ending provides a final cadence.

Thirty-three Lully pieces entered by Charles Babel (ca. 1634–1716) whose hand is neat and consistent. Same hand as that in Tenbury.

The Lully pieces are sequenced into Babel's compiled "suittes," a term evidently taken from Dieupart's Six Suites de clavessin (Amsterdam, 1701), from which twenty-three pieces were copied into Babell. Each key group is carefully designated "suite" with a number. Thirteen (out of 29) of the suites contain Lully arrangements, and seven use the overture as an opening movement (nos. 7, 15, 17, 21, 23, 26, and 27). On the basis of concordances, it appears that many of the arrangements in Babell also circulated in central Parisian sources. Gustafson brings up the possibility that Babel, rather than making his own arrangements, could have assembled his Lully arrangements from sources that also contain the remainder of his Parisian repertory.

Performance Notes

In the seventeenth century, the notation is under-prescriptive by modern standard and some elements of the performance may only be partially indicated or not indicated at all. Generally speaking, the performer has the discretion to supply in performance much that is not indicated in the source, such as by adding ornaments as well as melodic and rhythmic fillers, by spreading chords in a variety of ways, by embellishing the cadences, and sometimes even by enriching the texture with points of imitation. The modern performer can take lessons from D'Anglebert, who re-edited a selection of his autograph pieces for publication in 1689.¹ The performance attitude and elusive nature of the seventeenth-century French repertory has been exhaustively discussed by David Fuller, Ronald Broude, Bruce Gustafson, and
